

Competition is what makes America great! Don't let the special interest broadcast groups stifle the marketplace. Let consumers decide. If they don't want traffic and weather information on XM, they won't pay for it. I am confident that FCC Chairman Michael Powell is a strong believer in the free marketplace and I certainly hope that neither he nor the other commission members will be swayed by the protectionist appeals of the broadcasters. I have nothing against traditional broadcasting, but I am opposed to regulators siding with one segment of any industry to block competition from another.
